

Ascensus Implements Requisite Technology Channel Management Solution

*Leading Retirement Services Provider
Reduces Costs with a Single, Flexible Solution*

Chicago, Feb. 9, 2009 – Requisite Technology Inc., a leading provider of on-demand channel management solutions, announced today that Ascensus, the nation's largest independent administrator and record keeper for mid-sized retirement plans, has successfully launched the Requisite Technology Channel Management solution to its Retirement Services division.

Ascensus uses Requisite Technology's solution to tie their lead management process directly to proposals – reducing manual data entry and simplifying proposal generation while providing 24/7 access to lead information in a single, flexible solution.

"Our group was handcuffed by our previous solution. They were forced to perform time-consuming data entry tasks every day then remotely synch up to our main server," said Karen Watt, director, Ascensus sales, "Requisite Technology's solution has reduced the amount of manual data entry they have to perform, allowing them to concentrate on selling and promoting our services."

"Today's enterprises are turning towards automation to achieve differentiation in competitive marketplaces," said Grace Feliciano, general manager, Requisite Technology channel management division, "Requisite Technology's Channel Management solution enables companies like Ascensus to reduce manual labor by streamlining their current lead management processes."

"The decision was easy for us, either implement Requisite Technology's Channel Management solution or stop growing and fall behind our competition," said Watt.
